Oh help!

Oh no!

It's a gruffalo!

Let's tell and act out stories together!

We can learn and find props to act out stories together

We can use our story telling voices to bring the characters to life.

Did you know?
Reading aloud and talking about the pictures and words in books can strengthen your child's language skills. It is also an opportunity for bonding and supporting their emotional wellbeing!

How you can help me...
Repeat stories and use different voices and props to act out scenes with me.

What I like to do...
I like to join in with stories especially ones with songs and lots of repetition!

Let's Make a Sock Puppet!

We can find things together to make a sock puppet!

When you are busy, I can have fun with my puppet; putting on performances for my teddies, dolls or different toy figures!

Did you know?

Children of all ages love watching and playing with puppets! Puppet-play will encourage your child's imagination and creativity

How you can help me...
Use my puppet to act out a story in my home language.

What I like to do...

Have time to play with my puppet. Maybe we could set up a little puppet theatre together using an old box!

Together Reading Together

Let's create a book together!

We can make our own book together with photos of family and friends.

Or we can cut out characters from magazines and leaflets and make a story book.

Did you know?
Creating personalised books and stories together will improve your child's communication skills and encourage creativity and use of imagination!

How you can help me...
Point out family and friends in photos or characters in pictures and describe them to me. Encourage me to interact with them.

What I like to do...
See people or characters who are familiar to me and be given choices when cutting and sticking them into my book.
