

Nurture and Thrive

Explore how to best support the youngest children to thrive

This project will guide practitioners working with babies and under twos to provide high quality care, positive experiences and high quality environments for the youngest in the setting.

The course aims to support practitioners to:

- Explore the importance of infant brain development and how this relates to attachment, play, and development.
- Consider the role of the adult and the importance of attachment and love.
- Discuss the developmental needs of babies, including schemas and how best to support them.
- Consider the importance of everyday routines and activities for developing communication and language skills.
- Explore the impact of sensory play including treasure baskets and heuristic play
- Understand the importance of effective, enabling environments, including outside and resources to best support infant development.
- Develop ways to build on parent partnerships.
- Reflect on current practice, identify strengths and areas for further development.
